New Tips Available for Starting a Transition Improvement Process

Need help starting a transition improvement process at your practice? Got Transition has created a practical set of steps and lessons learned for starting a Transition Improvement process. These tips have been learned from transition improvement projects across the country. They are intended for use by pediatric, family medicine, and internal medicine primary care and specialty practices as well as by health systems, health plans, and payers. Transition tools and measurement resources to accompany the tips are available on Got Transition's website.

New Headquarters for Got Transition/the National Alliance to Advance Adolescent Health

Got Transition/the National Alliance to Advance Adolescent Health recently moved its headquarters to a new building, located at:

1615 M Street, NW
Suite 290
Washington, DC 20036

We will retain our phone number (202-223-1500). Please note our new fax number: 202-429-
Located in downtown Washington, DC, the historic building is adjacent to the Charles Sumner School Museum & Archives and is across the street from the National Geographic Museum. It is owned by the Wilderness Society and houses office space for many non-profit organizations.

New Resources and Links Available

Got Transition has recently updated an extensive set of resources related to health care transition. We added a section on Developmental Disabilities and transition. Other transition resources available on the site relate to such topics as employment, education, independent living, mental health, foster care, guardianship and decision-making, self-care, medical home, and more.
